

Program - French Philology

Level - Bachelor

Qualification - Bachelor of Humanities in Philology

Program Goals:

The goal of the program is to prepare Bachelors of Humanities in Philology that implies preparation of qualified specialists in French philology in accordance with European standards, who will be able to continue study at the second (MA) level or be employed first and foremost – at educational, and then media, tourist, governmental or non-governmental structures. The aim of the program is to elaborate in students linguistic competences, application of language proficiency freely, fluently and adequately in speech activities, formulate fluent speech skills in French, knowledge of correspondence and other documentation management, mastering recent methodologies and their realization in practice, elaboration of reading skills mechanisms for different types of readings, comprehension and understanding of the text, aesthetic perception of a literary text that means mastering language expressive means and stylistic devices; equip students with the knowledge that will help them to understand oral monologues and dialogues, elaborated language competences in conversing about every-day, social-political, literary, scientific and other topics, elaborate the skills of competent language norms of verbal and grammatically correct written forms, mastering the skills of conducting negotiations in business communications, learn the specificity of the “Language of Press”, make comments on articles and apply the obtained information in practice; reproduce verbal-structural information from the text, master the skills of essays, compositions, correspondence, documentation, presentations, business correspondence; develop the conversation competence in communicative activities; develop the skills of understanding, correct translation and reviewing a non-literary text; obtain information, listen, understand and reproduce latest news about social-political life of the modern world; through the interpretation of a literary work make deep and adequate understanding of an aesthetic and cognitive information of a text; make communication in French at offices, tourist agencies, hotels and other business spheres.